

Amendments to the Claims:

This listing of claims will replace all prior versions, and listings, of claims in the application:

Listing of Claims:

Claim 1 (Currently amended). A method for fabricating a sign, comprising the steps of:

selecting three dimensional pieces of element material for defining respectively a signage recipient base element and at least one signage donor element; said pieces of element material being of similar substance construction, except for at least one differences in appearance or tactile perception;

determining signage content for said sign; removing from said recipient base element specific substance configured to represent said signage content, such that there remains as said recipient base element, ~~a stencil-like base~~ a base having recipient cutout shapes possessing said signage content;

extracting from said signage donor element signage materials configured substantially the same as said signage content specific substance of said recipient base element;

and

inserting into said ~~stencil-like base~~ recipient base element having recipient cutout shapes, said signage material from said donor element, said signage material larger than said recipient cutout shapes so as to form a snap-in fit to become integral within said base element to thereby fill in said ~~stencil-like base~~ element having recipient cutout shapes.

Claim 12 (currently amended). A sign comprising:

a three dimensioned element which, defines a signage recipient base element, at least one signage donor element having three dimensions; said base and donor elements being constructed of similar substance, except for at least one difference in appearance or tactile perception; said base element containing a stencil-like portion, which is configured to support therein signage material from said signage donor element; and three dimensional signage material, from said donor element, inserted into said stencil-like portion of said base element to form a snap-in fit to become integral within said base element.

Cancel claims 5 and 19.